Curecrete Distribution, Inc. | April 23, 2019

Jerry Jones, founder and owner of Curecrete Distribution, Inc., has named Scott Liggett as President of the company, effective March 14, 2019. Scott has been serving as Chief Executive Officer of Curecrete since 2010. His official title is now President and CEO of Curecrete Distribution, Inc.

Says Jones, "I have asked Scott to take on the role of President and CEO. I truly believe that under his leadership, Curecrete will be able to reach its greatest potential. Scott cares personally for each of you and wants to help all of you to be successful. Working together, you will continue Curecrete's success into the future."

Scott believes that the success of Curecrete, or any organization, depends on each individual of the team fulfilling their responsibilities with a sense of ownership, competence, and pride. Consequently, a culture of accountability with a focus of getting everyone the tools and training they need to perform brilliantly will continue to be one of Scott's key focuses.

With his amiable but effective leadership style and ability to formulate and execute a clear and successful vision, Scott aims to build upon the tremendous growth Curecrete experienced under the dedication of Jerry Jones.

"I have never had more confidence in the future of Curecrete than I do today. I know you have all worked hard and will do whatever is necessary to continue that success. I have spent the majority of my life building up Curecrete and its products so that it can benefit all of us. I am truly blessed by having been able to embark on such a terrific journey that started in my garage so many years ago," says Jones.

"We are fortunate to inherit such a remarkable legacy on which to build," expresses Scott. "Jerry Jones has been a true trail blazer and all of us at Curecrete intend to keep his legacy alive by fully developing the vast potential that lies before us. We are empowered and encouraged by Jerry's confidence and trust in us to shape Curecrete's bright and promising future."

Scott graduated from Brigham Young University in 1999 with a degree in Philosophy, and a minor in Logic. He is married and has four daughters and a son, all of which adore their wonderful mother. When he is not working, Scott enjoys cooking, sports, the outdoors, and spending time with his kids.

Scott enjoys any challenge and is excited to take Curecrete to new and extraordinary heights in the future!
